In 1918, we called for equal pay for Black teachers.

In 1954, we submitted an amicus brief in Brown v. Board of Education stating that segregated schools were unconstitutional.

In 1957, we gave our affiliates a choice: Desegregate or leave the AFT.

In 1963, we helped arrange bus transportation to the March on Washington, and we marched alongside the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Mrs. Coretta Scott King for jobs and justice.

In the six decades since, the AFT, along with our partners, has continued the fight for equality and freedom, jobs and justice, a voice at work and in our democracy, and dignity and opportunity for all—which all starts with public education.

This Saturday, we are marching again.

For communities. For kids. For justice. For all.
