

 DATA FOR PROGRESS CLIMATE POWER

From August 18 to 21, 2023, Data for Progress and Climate Power conducted a survey of 1,224 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,224 unless otherwise specified.

[15] THE NEXT TWO QUESTIONS ARE SPLIT SAMPLED

The 2025 Presidential Transition Project, dubbed "Project 2025," is a proposed plan for a potential Republican presidency in 2025. It outlines policy proposals and would roll back many environmental policies that the Biden administration has enacted over the past four years – including its clean energy plan and strategy to reduce carbon emissions and other forms of pollution.

Supporters say the plan represents a unique opportunity for conservatives to propose a governing agenda and put the right people in place ready to carry out the agenda on day one of the next conservative administration.

Opponents to Project 2025 say it's a plan written for polluters by climate-denying think tanks and advocacy groups, and that the plan would increase pollution, raise costs for families, kill jobs, harm communities, and make the climate crisis much worse.

Knowing what you know now, would you support or oppose a candidate for office who endorsed Project 2025? (N=606)
